Italian is usually an excellent laborer, there has for some time been a strong movement to provide such facilities in the way of inmigrant stations as will allorer to this gateway a larger proportion of Italian limilgration.

That movement has suffered a severe setucek by reason of the fact that it unfortunately happens that it is the Italians who have infected not only New Orleans, but points in other States. It is recalled that in the epidemic of 1843, the severest New Orleans has ever had, it was the Germans who suffered most among the nationalities, due to the large flow of German limingration into Louisiana in the earlier fifties.

GOSSIP OF THE INQUIRY. Speculation As to Second Lee. Jefferson Ward Stories.

Jefferson Ward Stories.

The gossip and rumors of alleged irregularities in the Second Precinct of Lee Ward are attributed by men familiar with local politics and the ward and precinct quarrels to a disagreement as to the polling place of that precinct, it is said that the polling place was formerly in the rear of or near a saloon, and that some time ago it was removed. The removal of the polling place is said to have been resented by certain persons alleged to have favored the old location. The implication is that some of these persons are endeavoring to discredit the ward officials for, their act in removing the precinct.

The implication is that some of these persons are endeavoring to discredit the ward officials for, their act in removing the precinct.

The election officers in the precinct are men of good standing, it is claimed, and, at least, one has entered an emphatic denial of any irregularities at the precinct. The rumors of discrepancies at this precinct are not universally credited by any means, sentiment being pretty well divided on this point. Many predict that the rumors will prove unfounded. Some of the ward workers at First Jefferson are proclaiming that the grand jury found that the vote at this polling place tailed with the grand jury poll, Just how the information is gleaned is not stated.

Some amusing instances are told of the testimony of certain winesses in First Jefferson. In one case a certain voter, who cared little for whom he voted for attorney is quoted as saying that he knew he voted for Junky Smith, but he could not remember for whom he voted for the other place. "Commonwealth's Attorney, you mean?" queried a man who knew him. "That's the name; I had forgotten it clear," was the response, amid the laughter of those who heard the colloquy. It is further related that the man was told he had voted for Colonel George Wayne Anderson for attorney. Later on he is said to have declared that he got mixed up and forgot that name. "What did you tell the grand Jury?" he was asked. "Oh, I told 'em I voted the straight ticket," was the promp; response, and there was another laugh.

M. Witte's Greeting to America.

For the friendly greeting of the American newspapers on my first visit to the hospitable shores of the United States I offer my heartfeit thanks.

This kind attention touches me all the more profoundly when I realize the vastness of the power wielded by the press of the United States and admire the keen intelligence with which it is uniformly directed. I am glad to be able to add that I also appreciate the ethical worth of the alms for the attainment of which that power is so often and so successfully employed. One of the noblest of their aims is the establishment of peace and friendship among nations, and of their aims is the establishment of peace and friendship among nations, and it is to the praiseworthy efforts in this direction that my visit to the New World is attributable. It is in compliance with the American people's desire for peace, of which President Roosevelt was the authorized exponent, that His Majesty, the Czar, has empowered me to come hither and ascertain the conditions which our gallant adversary deems necessary and adequate as a basis for peace negotiations.

Czar, has empowered me to come inther and sacquate as a basis for peace negotiations.

I need hardly point out that it is my ardent desire that the two chivairous foes who first became acquainted on the field of battle may have found in each cother's sterling qualities motives powerful enough to cultivate that acquaintanceship until it ripens into lasting friendship. Meanwhile, however, the terms offered must first be ascertained, weighed and judged admissible by Russia before she can proceed to formal negotiations.

Hitherto, as you are aware, it was customary in cases like this to settle all such preliminaries before the meeting of the plenipotentiaries, whose task it was to come to a final agreement upon matters under discussion.

Now, the very fact that His Majesty, the Czar, consented to take a course
